We also respect how each organization has distinct educational needs, yet often with common project team roles including:

- Functional and Technical Consultant
- Solution Architect
- Project Engineer
- Project Manager
- Solution Consultant
- Client Partner

Our project team training addresses the specific needs of each role within your organization and consists of a combination of public, private, formal, informal, in-person, virtual, and online training—strategically developed to address each leader's preferred method of learning.

Initiating team learning at the earliest stage of a project is crucial to ensure that your key project members are both empowered and well positioned to make strategic decisions that will ultimately reduce learning curves and increase overall team productivity. Plus, it helps deliver a quicker time to value.

Infor's project team training is built on a set of capabilities designed to deliver fundamental competencies.

These initial learnings include key points like:

- Overarching solution overview
- Detailed solution navigation techniques
- Compelling solution business benefits

Subsequent training will focus on application and technical training that will prepare your functional and technical teams to strategically address decisions they'll face in situations dealing with things such as data mapping workshops, pilots, and more.

This project team training will accelerate your team's go-live readiness and equip your business with the knowledge to deliver a path to sustainable success and advancement.

Our business and technical consultants will work side by-side with your team to share their in-depth experience, expertise, and best practice knowledge to maximize the enablement for your staff. This approach, coupled with our robust methodology, toolsets, documentation, guidelines, and other deliverables from our project implementation approach, provides you with the tools you need to position your team for project success.

We commit to:

- Prepare your project team to successfully participate in the project and sustain your solution post go-live.
- Ensure your project team is well equipped to make appropriate implementation decisions for your organization.
- Deliver a training approach to address diverse learning styles for adult learners.

Summary

Trust is a cornerstone of any successful business relationship, and Infor takes this value seriously. As your trusted business partner, we commit to working with you to assess and address your ongoing learning requirements and deliver an enhanced training program that meets your long-term business needs. Infor remains devoted to your success in the long run and is positioned to support you at every step in your journey with us.
