Infor Nexus Trading Partner Management

With increased government scrutiny on the origin of goods as well as an ever-growing demand by consumers for details on the environmental and social impact of their goods, supply chain transparency is no longer aspirational, it's a necessity for today's organizations. Having full visibility to the source of goods not only helps build brand loyalty but can ensure goods arrive without any delays. A lack of supply chain transparency stunts growth and can even stop operations.

Too many companies rely on shared folders, emails, and disconnected procedures to manage the data collection and ongoing engagement with their suppliers. There are hundreds of touchpoints from the initial identification of a potential supplier, through the onboarding process, ongoing auditing, and eventual off-boarding of the supplier. Having a structured system that includes an online tool to leverage existing supplier connections, multi-party workflow, and alerts is critical to managing all partner engagements efficiently.

The Infor Nexus™ Trading Partner Management solution empowers companies to enhance transparency across their supply chains. The tool enables companies to gather information regarding their partners' capabilities, business practices, certifications, business partners and regulatory compliance in the form of questionnaires. Information can be provided directly by the supplier, by individuals within the buyer's organization or trusted third parties. Corrective Action Plans can be raised and tracked through the tool.

A fully configurable tool, Infor Nexus Trading Partner Management helps organizations create successful processes based on their specific needs. Data collected in the tool can be combined with third-party systems and transactional data to paint a comprehensive picture of the partner and reduce data entry requirements.
